

GENDER AND PHILOSOPHY SUMMER SCHOOLS 2016

PHILOSOPHY OF THE BODY

The University of Iceland, May 23-27, 2016

The Erasmus+ program Gender and Philosophy welcomes you to its first summer school "Philosophy of the Body," held in Reykjavík, Iceland, May 2016. The body is one of the grand topics of contemporary philosophy, where traditional dichotomies such as reason/emotion, nature/culture and feminine/masculine have been questioned and problematized, yielding a richer and a more complex idea of the human subject. The summer school is a great opportunity for students interested in contemporary analytical and phenomenological theories of the body, and training in embodied thinking as a new method for strengthening philosophical creativity, intuition and finding what is truly one's own thinking. The training in embodied thinking is based on Eugene Gendlin's methods of "Focusing" and "Thinking at the Edge" in relation to philosophy. Students will learn to harness their own embodied resources for thinking, also by focusing in Iceland's breathtaking nature. Further information can be found at www.genderandphilosophy.hi.is.

HIGHER EDUCATION IN PHILOSOPHY

TEACHERS FROM USA, SWITZERLAND AND ICELAND

FREE ACCOMODATION

APPLICATION
DEADLINE THE 15TH
OF FEBRUARY 2016

APPLY VIA OUR WEBPAGE!

GENDER AND PHILOSOPHY

Visit our webpage:
www.genderandphilosophy.hi.is

Send us an email at:
gap@hi.is

